Rockie,

Maybe not evidence, but it sure is supporting relative dialogue to those making the decisions.

You are right but it is hard to use that as evidence in a case agent them. I have been using Free Conference call for 4 years and have never had problems with it.

You know at one time a lot of the coordinators was have the same problem with zoom and other one in tell I was recording there meetings and it stopped. There was not more problems.

They would say we do not have the recording and I would say I can give you a copy. That stop that problem.

Hey Rockie,

Sometimes in the middle of the night the obvious wakes me up.

Under the umbrella that after the Feb 2025 Jural Assembly meeting technical errors, I immediately requested copies of the Free Conference Call report that is sent immediately after the meetings.

I asked for the report on multiple occasions, all requests were ignored.

If "IF" that report would have actually indicated there were technical errors, they would have sent it in a New York minute.

In my world that is proof enough that the "technical errors " were in fact intentional.

In Sue's email the following day on the technical errors, she inserted a disclaimer that "they were not intentional "

Why the need for that disclaimer ?

No one at that point had made that assertion.

Jack
